You're not dead yet...
but someday you will be.
If you play your cards
right, someone will gather up your
essence and feed
your spirit so it
can continue for all eternity...

The metaphor for the mirror's depth is the symbol of the cross.

As if

the

spire

were

ag

innate term,

the model value,

As if the body were the carriage and the spirit the mind,

which

was led by another spirit, called the coachman.

Your
daily death
of the sun

can neither be denied not destroyed.

And

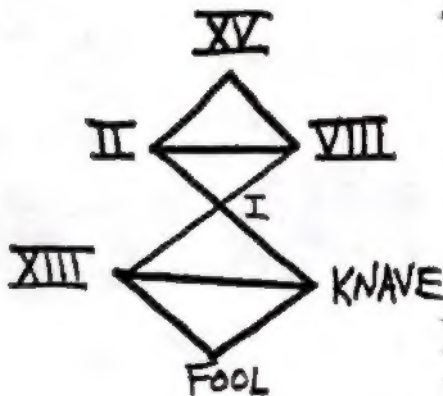

the body ceases to exist

and

the flesh,

sinks into the depths of the mirror.

DIAGRAM OF the Tortured

It is, above all, a figure for the plane, which is this mortal world metaphysical axis, which plunges

AND THE CORPSE

The power to become

ANDROGYNOUS TOTALITY

the intersection of the horizontal world, by the vertical plane, the ages into the mirror.

FOURTH
DANAME
1910-1960

Time must pass,

purification

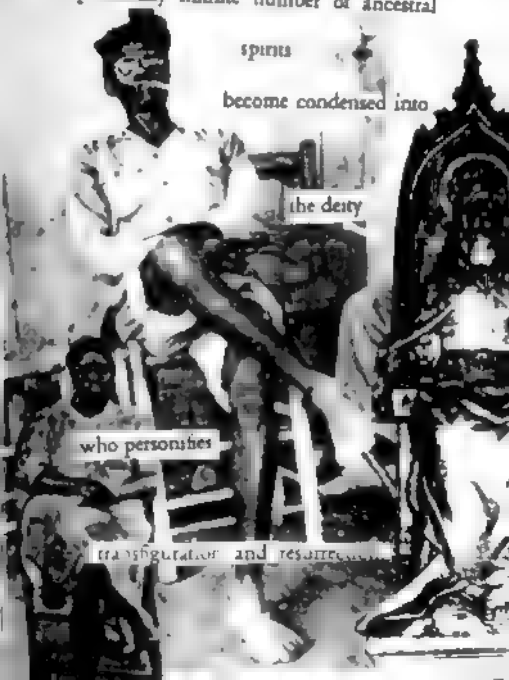

must take place,

By this process,
a potentially infinite number of ancestral spirits
become condensed into

the deity

who personifies

transfiguration and resurrection

They are greeted in mirror terms:

the body and spirit

And the body

alone

can do nothing but

make us shit;

Subway Reviews

Most Scenic ride - A train between Howard Beach and Far Rock (sump houses, bird sanctuary, the ocean etc.)

Best Sleeping ride - D train between 59th st and 125th st.

Best "Animal like" train noises D train (escaping air from brakes sounds like a Dragon sighing, also good, low, guttural moaning noises)

Best train "All around" F train
'Cause it goes to Coney Island and goes pretty much up the middle of Manhattan. Plus, it stops near my house and it often seems to have that
"New Car" smell.
